

The Handwriting Checklist

Susie Amundson, MS, OTR/L

Teaching students to evaluate their own handwriting is an important part of the instruction process. A simple checklist attached to the corner of the student's desktop reminds the student with poor handwriting to evaluate a written assignment. The teacher will need to teach the student how to use the checklist and its meaning. The checklist below may be photocopied to be used on a student's desktop or attached to a notebook binder.

TRICS
For Written Communication

COPYRIGHT © 1998.
No part of this publication may be reproduced for distribution. Only persons purchasing this product have the author's limited permission to photocopy worksheets for a student's educational programming.

HOW IS MY HANDWRITING?

My spacing is proper.	yes	no
The size of my letters is all right.	yes	no
My letter forms are correct.	yes	no
The letters are placed neatly on the line.	yes	no
I can easily read my writing.	yes	no